Forecast For Yorkshire & the Humber
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 24 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cloudy at times, with isolated outbreaks of rain.

This Evening and Tonight:
Lengthy clear spells at first but clouding over for many overnight. Some light rain is possible over the Pennines but this will ease later, and most will stay dry. Chilly and breezy. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Thursday:
Dry for many with variable amounts of cloud giving some bright or sunny spells. Perhaps cloudier later, with some rain and drizzle likely over the Pennines. Breezy and mild. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Early heavy rain Friday clearing to a cold day with blustery, wintry showers. Cold start but drier and brighter Saturday. Mild with outbreaks of rain on Sunday. Windy throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.